CHINA IS TRYING HARD TO CORRECT ITS WEAKNESSES

Cracks Also Have Appeared In The Communist Armor

A DISTINCT PATTERN

Chiang Reports Peasant Up-risings Against Communists

In this third article of a series on the "Battle for China," veteran Far Eastern Correspondent Howard Handelman, who previously has told of Nationalist weaknesses discusses some of the vulnerable points in the Chinese Communist position.

By Howard Handelman

International News Service)

TAIPEH, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Nationalist China is trying to correct its weaknesses—particularly the major defect of disunity—but at the same time cracks also have appeared in the Communist armor.

They were not wide cracks, and militarily the Reds were still riding high, mighty high.

But there were persistent reports from behind the lines, from areas the Communists had held for months, that indicated all was not well with them.

These reports, so consistent that they formed a distinct pattern, gave cheer to the Nationalists, who admittedly are looking for anything cheerful.

Chiang Kai-Shek said flatly there have been peasant uprisings against the Communists.

Military authorities in Taipei said anti-Communist guerrilla units were being organized in at least six provinces and that they already had made liaison with local units, such as the provincial militia, who were antagonistic to the Reds.

Both military and civilian reports said many of the Nationalist troops who defected to the Reds were disillusioned and unhappy. But military leaders judging these reports believe that if the Nationalists ever can mount an offensive that is even moderately successful, the Communists will have trouble with the former Nationalist soldiers.

The Nationalist "port closure" has been an important factor in adding to Communist discomfort in occupied areas.

So far the port closures have not created any food shortages that the Nationalists know about, but they have reduced the supply of coal and oil so much that Shanghai factories have been forced to shut down, with the attendant unemployment and civil discontent.

Those are the main Communist soft spots the Nationalists believe will become important factors if and when there is a successful military movement from the Nationalist side.

The men around Chiang Kai-Shek say there will be a reformed effort to mount a Nationalist offensive.

Nationalist leaders believe the most important of the soft spots in Communist China is the attitude of the people toward their new rulers.

Wu Te-chen, an elder statesman who once was Vice-Premier, once was Foreign Minister and once was Shanghai's Mayor, summed up the attitude of the people in Communist areas by saying:

"They dislike the Kuomintang, but they hate the Communists."

A young Chinese who spent weeks in Communist China before escaping to the haven of Taipei, said a

Yardley Man Lodged In The Bucks County Jail

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 10.—A 27-year-old Yardley man, a former local boxer, is in Bucks County Jail, Doylestown, following his arrest in Morrisville after allegedly burglarizing the Yardley Feed Mill and allegedly attempting to rob the Acme Food Store on E. Bridge street, Morrisville.

He is Albert Turner, of S. Canal street, who was arrested by Officer John W. Johnson, of the Morrisville police, Monday, as he climbed through a rear window of the food store. He is said to have admitted robbing a safe in the Yardley Feed Mill office earlier the same morning and said he planned to rob the safe in the store, Johnson said.

Johnson found burglar tools in Turner's car and $10 in change and two $1 bills on Turner, who admitted taking the money from the Yardley mill.

Turner was held without bail for court by Justice of the Peace Harry Lee, Jr., of Morrisville, on charges of burglary at Yardley, attempted burglary in Morrisville, and the possession of burglar tools.

Other police officers investigating the case were Chief Harry F. Christ, of Morrisville; Trooper Andrew Kutney, of state police at Langhorne; and Chief Robert Waterson, of Yardley.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The Senate investigations subcommittee inquiring into the activities of "five percenters" who obtained lucrative fees in exchange for the promise of Government contracts yesterday heard Federal Housing Expediter Woods testify that he had been summoned to the White House by Major General Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide. General Vaughan, according to Mr. Woods, interceded in behalf of a California race track, operated by friends of his, which had requested a permit for scarce building materials.

Another Congressional investigation, that of the House Armed Services Committee into the development of bombers, was informed by Robert A. Lovett, former Assistant Secretary of War for Air, that only one consideration influenced the selection of the B-36 in 1941 as the Air Force's super-bomber. He said that that consideration was the ability of the Consolidated Aircraft Company to make the kind of machine wanted by Air Force engineers.

The White House acted to stimulate re-employment in regions hit hardest by unemployment. It requested various Government agencies to concentrate their purchases in 11 communities in which 12 per

ANNOUNCE PLAN FOR MAIL DELIVERY

Slips Will Be Delivered By Mail Carriers To The Residents of Croydon

QUICK RETURN ASKED

CROYDON, Aug. 10.—The following plan has been adopted in the assignment of house numbers for the expediting of free door-to-door delivery of mail from the Croydon postoffice.

A slip will be placed in rural mail boxes by the rural mail carrier, which the householder will be asked to fully complete. All are urged to give this immediate attention.

Upon receipt of the completed blank a number will be inserted on a return form. This will be the only number recognized for the delivery of mail. The rural carrier will deposit the form, showing the house number, in present mail box. The property owner or tenant is then asked to affix this number to the building, either by painting the number (three inches or more in size) or purchase the numerals and affix them to the building, to be visible from the street.

All the work in connection with numbering of the lots has been on a volunteer basis and at no cost to the taxpayers. James E. Harris has been and will be assisted by William Knight and the Misses Julia Koob, Olga Miller and Anne Earner in doing the detail work.

Residents of Croydon Manor and Maple Shade, which does not have rural service at this time, may call at the Croydon postoffice and secure the information blank, which, when fully completed, may be returned to the Croydon postoffice, after which the official house number will be assigned. Miss Marguerite Tryon, postmistress, will co-operate in every way possible to assure the residents of Croydon Manor and Maple Shade the establishment of door-to-door delivery in that section as soon as the postal regulations have been complied with.

It is again emphasized that postal regulations require houses to be numbered and a regulation house mail box or a slit in the door for the postman to deliver mail.

Ascertain lot numbers on deeds or your Bristol Township tax bill, as each lot has been given a house number, and house number depends on the location and lot (or lots) number.

cent or more of the normally employed were now jobless.

Overriding Republican objections, the Democratic majority in the House instructed the House conferees on the foreign aid appropriation bill to resist all Senate attempts to continue the Congressional "watch dog" committee, created during the Republican-controlled Eightieth Congress to check on Marshall Plan operations.

Secretary of Defense Johnson accepted a budget formula offered by Senator Vandenberg under which $600,000,000 would be cut from the proposed immediate cash authorization in the foreign military aid program.

President Quirino of the Philippines received a warm welcome as he appeared before the Senate to urge the formation of a Pacific Union, patterned after the Western Union organization in Europe, to curb the spread of communism in Asia. The proposed Pacific Union would be composed of the free countries of southeastern Asia and the Pacific and need not have the immediate participation of the United States, Mr. Quirino said.

The twelve foreign ministers forming the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe adopted an

Ambitious Kennel Operators Spend Many Profitable Hours

TRAIN PRIZE DOGS

CROYDON, Aug. 10.—The ambitious operators of Lahnwood Kennels, Bristol Pike—Mr. and Mrs. William Lahn—have come in for a share of recognition in the public press during the past few days.

Known as Edna and Bill to their friends, they are thrilled with their hobby and side-line which has blossomed into a business that takes up as much time as a full-time job—that of breeding and handling cocker spaniels.

At the kennels are two males, five puppies that will be two weeks old tomorrow. It is believed that many of the adult dogs are on their way to championships.

It was nine years ago that the Lahns acquired a pedigreed cocker as a family pet, and decided to breed it for the enjoyment of having puppies around. When the first litter arrived the Lahn family was off on the road of amateur fanciers.

The Lahns do all the work in connection with the kennels, feeding, exercising and training. Ch. Lahnwood Grand Guy, winner of ten best of varieties and recipient of 86 ribbons, is enshrined in their hearts. Checkers, the champion's kennel name, has been entered in 25 shows, scoring his first point at nine months when he won the best of variety. It was at the age of two that he acquired his title at Hartford, Conn.

It was three years ago that the Lahns became professional handlers. Mrs. Lahn has charge of the household, and her hubby has a full-time job—but they take full charge of the dogs. Although the Lahns claim that expenses over-balance profits, in spite of the $10 handling fee, plus board, plus any money won, they are paid in the excitement of competition, and pinning up ribbons.

A dog is taken to the kennels two or three weeks before a show to brush up on form, and three hours daily are devoted to each dog. There are alternate half-hour periods of rest and training. Lead breaking is first, then a dog is taught to "stay" when told to—and patience is required on the part of a handler.

A dog, if a novice, is first entered in a match—a show without points—in which he can make errors without embarrassment to the owner or handler.

It is claimed that to get the most out of a dog is to thoroughly understand the dog. Once a dog is thoroughly trained it will enter the ring full self-confidence.

SELECTIVE SERVICE BOARD TO CUT HOURS

Local Office Hours To Be 10 per Week, Same As Other Offices

SET-UP CONTINUES

The Local Selective Service Board with headquarters at 120 Mill street, will go on a part-time basis, as will the other selective service boards in the state.

Faced with a 50 percent cut in appropriations, the Federal agency in Pennsylvania has decided to go on a part time basis rather than put into effect an outright reduction in the number of boards, headquarters and personnel.

Local Board No. 35, here, will observe the 10-hour week decided upon when the office opens for business Tuesday, September 6th. The new schedule is effective September 3rd, but the local office will be closed over the holiday week-end.

There is but one clerk located at Bristol now, and a 40 hour week has been in effect here. Definite hours will be announced later.

Lt. Col. Henry M. Gross, State director of Selective Service, confirmed reports of the cutback.

Gross, however, stressed the point that "the operation will be kept intact."

"We want to keep the machine idling, but ready to go at a moment's notice," the draft director said.

"Our aim will be to hold all our boards, our personnel and our locations," he said.

Since inductions were halted in January, the principal job of the local boards has been to register all males reaching the age of 18 and classifying registrants 18 through 25.

"Because of the splendid work of the boards," Colonel Gross said, "we have a great backlog of man-

MORRISVILLE MUST IMPROVE LOCKUP

State Dep't of Welfare Serves Notice Upon The Borough

MUST VISIT INMATES

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 10.—This borough has received notice from the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare that within 90 days the conditions at the borough lockup must be improved. The lockup is located in the rear of borough hall.

Council, in a letter was directed to clean and repaint the jail, remove storage there, instruct proper authorities to make hourly visits to inmates, keep adequate records and provide adequate plumbing facilities.

Councilman Charles Young pointed out that the jail at one time was equipped with plumbing but that an inmate had ripped a basin off the wall and flooded the jail.

William Howell, borough secretary, was instructed to reply that the borough will comply with the directive, at the same time pointing out the borough's position on the failure to maintain plumbing facilities.

Councilman David Talone announced council's unanimous decision to reject a petition by Alexander and Mary Zekan of 84 Central Ave., between Brooks Ave. and Morrisville Cemetery, to permit construction of a grocery.

Residents of Cox Ave. will send notices directing them to comply with an order to install curbs, gutters and sidewalks, Councilman Edward Greenlee said. Failure to comply, it was added, will result in the borough doing the work and charging the residents. The curbing project coincides with the surfacing of the street by the borough.

Work on the extension of the water intake pipe in the Delaware River is almost completed, Councilman Caleb Cope reported.

Council voted to purchase a snow-pow from the King Supply Co., Morrisville, for $458.13.

NAMED SUP'TS OF REGIONAL AREAS BY COUNTY BOARD

New Duties of School Heads Carries Additional Responsibilities

WALTER MILLER IS ONE

Others Are Elected in Upper Section of The County

Walter Miller, of Bristol Township; Dr. Oliver S. Heckman, Langhorne-Middletown-Pennell-Hulmeville area, and Medill Bair, of Pennsylvania, were last night elected as regional superintendents. H. Franklin Moore, president of the Bucks County Board of School Directors, announced.

The new title and position entails increased responsibilities in those areas.

The position of regional superintendent created by the Bucks County Board of School Directors not only carries with it important advisory duties to the County Board but also responsibilities in connection with the administration of the county in-service training program and system of teacher-rating. The new position also indicates the increased emphasis placed by the County Board on the need for a more effective in-service training of teachers. The tenure law and the recent acts of the legislature in mandating higher salaries have made it inevitable that teachers improve in-service.

Other regional superintendents elected were: Dr. Lewis N. Snyder of Sellersville-Perkasie; Melvin Mack, of Palisades; Clyde Davis, of New Hope-Solebury; Norman Kratz of Council Rock; P. Eugene Klinger of Upper Southampton-Warminster; Dr. Edward Smith of Doylestown; John Grasse of Deep Run Valley.

The new program was proposed by the county superintendent and came after a six year study of various proposals to utilize the county's educational leaders in a broad in-service training program. The new program does not necessarily mean the same type of program will be conducted in each administrative area, but it does mean that more administrators and supervisors will assist in county-wide programs.

The new position will not affect the duties of these administrators to their respective boards.

Joseph Fink of Bridgeton-Nockamixon, Robert Shafer of Buckingham, and Raymond Gilbert of Northampton were appointed associate regional superintendents.

"UNCLEAN" NO LONGER

Leprosy, from ancient times on, has been a monstrous horror viewed with fear and superstitions awe. Such ailments as blindness or demonic possession might arise from attitudes of mind and be cured accordingly. But leprosy was as loathsome physical and "real" as it was incurable and contagious. Even in days when sanitation and the germ theory were unheard of, lepers were forced to cry "Unclean!" that the hale might shun them.

A lesser miracle of science has changed all that. Promin and other new sulfone drugs will not cure leprosy, but they can remove the uncleanness. Like insulin in diabetes, they arrest the disease. They also render it completely non-contagious.

That is progress. But progress, as officials of the National Leprosarium at Carville, La., are discovering for themselves, brings not only rewards but frustrations and disillusionments. They were proud that they have been able to discharge 52 patients with arrested leprosy last year. But they are distressed because 16 of the 52 have come back and others are suffering from the attitude of society.

The stigma remains. People still figuratively cry "Unclean! Unclean!" Released lepers are lost and bewildered in a world that won't give them jobs or grant them friends. They are no danger to anyone, but they are shunned as if they were. Some of them even wonder if they aren't worse off than they were.

WHAT'S COOKING? A WHALE!

Young ones from northern waters make the best eating, they say. The old-fashioned reek of whale-oil soap, which the over-imaginative widen their nostrils to if someone as much as mentions whale meat, is less prominent in the flesh of the Arctic-reared calves of the world's mightiest mammal.

Since of tastes there is no disputing, there are people whose mouths water at the very thought of a whale. The Japanese, a strange people, are fond of whale meat; and so are the Russians, an extraordinary folk. The Norwegians, who are neither enigmatized nor out-re, like it too. And Britons, twitching a nostril at the very thought, may decide to demonstrate their austerity by acquiring the taste.

Meat is strictly rationed in Britain, where a week's supply is less than a hungry man could consume at one sitting. Whale meat, however unappetizing the thought may seem, is good red flesh, replete with the complete amino-acid compounds necessary for optimum nutrition. And whale meat is not rationed.

Britain's Ministry of Food has been in a huddle with butchers, who have tentatively agreed to offer whale steaks, whale roasts, short ribs of whale, and whale-burger to their stock. The government is prepared, if these products catch on, to arrange for as much as 250,000 tons of whale meat during each hunting season.

China Is Trying Hard To Correct Its Weaknesses

slogan of the people in the north is: "Down with Chiang, death to Mac."

Wu Te-Chen and other Nationalist officials said the reports they get disclose the following picture that explains the people's feelings:

Wearily with war, the people welcomed the retreat of the Nationalists and the advance of the Communists because they felt that any change would be for the better and that once they were behind the front lines—once the war had passed them by—they would be able to settle down to the ordinary business of living.

When the Communists came, therefore, they were welcomed. Their soldiers were well disciplined and well trained politically. Most of all they were polite, where Nationalist troops had been rude.

But this politeness soon palled. The farmers soon found that the polite Communists demanded more rice and more freewheel than the rude Nationalists. The farmers and the city folks learned that the oppressive taxes of the Nationalists were less than the new taxes levied by the Peoples Liberation Army.

Nationalist leaders think the attitude of the peasants, particularly, can become a determining factor in turning the tide against the Reds. But they realize, too, that it is unlikely the peasants or any other dissident elements will do anything until the Nationalists prove by military deeds that they still have a future in China.

power registered and classified for use, when and if needed."

Under the cutback scheduled to go into effect about Sept. 8, the paid personnel of the boards will be employed on a 10-hour-a-week basis instead of the 40-hour full-time, or a 20-hour schedule in any two-week pay period.

Gross said he hoped the boards could arrange their office hours so that paid employees could remain on their jobs in addition to getting employment elsewhere. Each board has at least one full-time clerk at present. Board members serve without pay.

There will be a number of "separations" at the Harrisburg headquarters, he said.

GEROME PITCHES NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME HERE

"Reggie" Gerome entered the mythical hall of fame of the Bristol Suburban Softball League last evening as he hurled a no-run no-hit game for Franklin A. C. over St. Ann's on Memorial Park field. Final score was: Franklin, 8; St. Ann's, 0.

In pitching the no-batter, Gerome only permitted five St. Ann's players to reach base, three on passes and two on errors. Not one was able to get as far as third base.

On the other hand, Franklin had a total of six hits off "Eddie" Pinelli. But two of these were by Art Massi which enabled him to drive three runs across the plate.

In the fourth inning, Frank Barbetta slammed out a home run with the bases bare but shortly after two runners were on the bags when Gerome came through with a double.

In the Suburban League game at Tullytown, Tullytown A. C. defeated Second Ward. The triumph gave the Second Warders the regular season championship of the loop.

ST. ANN'S LOSES A CLOSE GAME TO LALOR A. C. NINE

TRENTON, Aug. 10 — Irwin Penrose hit a home run in the last half of the seventh inning last evening to give Lalor A. C. a close 7-6 win over St. Ann's A. A. in a Trenton Industrial League game. The defeat dropped the "Saints" to second place in the league-standings.

Penrose's four-base blow came off the hurling of "Danny" Keegan who had relieved Paul Cervellero in the fifth inning. Keegan was charged with the loss while Art Green was the winning pitcher.

The Bristol team passed up its best opportunity in the first half of the seventh when Joe Elmer led off with a triple. But Barbetta could not score him. Ciabella beat out a hit but Schultheis and Keegan failed to produce and the "Saints" were scoreless.

"Battle for China": CHINA IS TRYING HARD TO CORRECT ITS WEAKNESSES

Cracks Also Have Appeared In The Communist Armor

A DISTINCT PATTERN

Chiang Kai-Shek reports Communist position. In this third article of a series on the "Battle for China," veteran Far Eastern Correspondent Howard Handelman, who previously has told of Nationalist weaknesses discusses some of the vulnerable points in the Chinese Communist position.

By Howard Handelman (Far Eastern Director, International News Service)

TAIPEH, Aug. 10—(INS)—Nationalist China is trying to correct its weaknesses—particularly the major defect of disunity—but at the same time cracks also have appeared in the Communist armor.

They were not wide cracks, and militarily the Reds were still riding high, mighty high.

But there were persistent reports from behind the lines, from areas the Communists had held for months, that indicated all was not well with them.

These reports, so consistent that they formed a distinct pattern, gave cheer to the Nationalists, who admittedly are looking for anything cheerful.

Chiang Kai-Shek said flatly there have been peasant uprisings against the Communists.

Military authorities in Taipei said anti-Communist guerrilla units were being organized in at least six provinces and that they already had made liaison with local units, such as the provincial militia, who were antagonistic to the Reds.

Both military and civilian reports said many of the Nationalist troops who defected to the Reds were disillusioned and unhappy. But military leaders judging these reports believe that if the Nationalists ever can mount an offensive that is even moderately successful, the Communists will have trouble with the former Nationalist soldiers.

The Nationalist "port closure" has been an important factor in adding to Communist discomfort in occupied areas.

So far the port closures have not created any food shortages that the Nationalists know about, but they have reduced the supply of coal and oil so much that Shanghai factories have been forced to shut down, with the attendant unemployment and civil discontent.

Those are the main Communist soft spots the Nationalists believe will become important factors if and when there is a successful military movement from the Nationalist side.

The men around Chiang Kai-Shek say there will be a reformed effort to mount a Nationalist offensive.

Nationalist leaders believe the most important of the soft spots in Communist China is the attitude of the people toward their new rulers.

Wu Te-chen, an elder statesman who once was Vice-Premier, once was Shanghai's Mayor, summed up the attitude of the people in Communist areas by saying:

"They dislike the Kuomintang, but they hate the Communists."

A young Chinese who spent weeks in Communist China before escaping to the haven of Taipei, said a

Yardley Man Lodged In The Bucks County Jail

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 10—A 27-year-old Yardley man, a former local boxer, is in Bucks County Jail, Doylestown, following his arrest in Morrisville after allegedly burglarizing the Yardley Feed Mill and allegedly attempting to rob the Acme Food Store on E. Bridge street, Morrisville.

He is Albert Turner, of S. Canal street, who was arrested by Officer John W. Johnson, of the Morrisville police, Monday, as he climbed through a rear window of the food store. He is said to have admitted robbing a safe in the Yardley Feed Mill office earlier the same morning and said he planned to rob the safe in the store, Johnson said.

Johnson found burglar tools in Turner's car and $10 in change and two $1 bills on Turner, who admitted taking the money from the Yardley mill.

Turner was held without bail for court by Justice of the Peace Harry Lee, Jr., of Morrisville, on charges of burglary in Morrisville, and the possession of burglar tools.

Other police officers investigating the case were Chief Harry F. Christ, of Morrisville; Trooper Andrew Kutney, of state police at Langhorne; and Chief Robert Watson, of Yardley.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The Senate investigations subcommittee inquiring into the activities of "five percenters" who obtained lucrative fees in exchange for the promise of Government contracts yesterday heard Federal Housing Expediter Woods testify that he had been summoned to the White House by Major General Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide. General Vaughan, according to Mr. Woods, interceded in behalf of a California race track, operated by friends of his, which had requested a permit for scarce building materials.

Another Congressional investigation, that of the House Armed Services Committee into the development of bombers, was informed by Robert A. Lovett, former Assistant Secretary of War for Air, that only one consideration influenced the selection of the B-36 in 1941 as the Air Force's super-bomber. He said that that consideration was the ability of the Consolidated Aircraft Company to make the kind of machine wanted by Air Force engineers.

The White House acted to stimulate re-employment in regions hit hardest by unemployment. It requested various Government agencies to concentrate their purchases in 11 communities in which 12 per

ANNOUNCE PLAN FOR MAIL DELIVERY

Slips Will Be Delivered By Mail Carriers To The Residents of Croydon

QUICK RETURN ASKED

CROYDON, Aug. 10—The following plan has been adopted in the assignment of house numbers for the expediting of free door-to-door delivery of mail from the Croydon postoffice:

A slip will be placed in rural mail boxes by the rural mail carrier, which the householder will be asked to fully complete. All are urged to give this immediate attention.

Upon receipt of the completed blank a number will be inserted on a return form. This will be the only number recognized for the delivery of mail. The rural carrier will deposit the form, showing the house number, in present mail box.

The property owner or tenant is then asked to affix this number to the building, either by painting the number (three inches or more in size) or purchase the numerals and affix them to the building, to be visible from the street.

All the work in connection with numbering of the lots has been on a volunteer basis and at no cost to the taxpayers. James E. Harris has been and will be assisted by William Knight and the Misses Julia Koob, Olga Miller and Anne Barner in doing the detail work.

Residents of Croydon Manor and Maple Shade, which does not have rural service at this time, may call at the Croydon postoffice and secure the information blank, which, when fully completed, may be returned to the Croydon postoffice, after which the official house number will be assigned. Miss Margaret Tryon, postmistress, will cooperate in every way possible to assure the residents of Croydon Manor and Maple Shade the establishment of door-to-door delivery in that section as soon as the postal regulations have been complied with.

It is again emphasized that postal regulations require houses to be numbered and a regulation house mail box or a slit in the door for the postman to deliver mail.

Ascertain lot numbers on deeds or your Bristol Township tax bill, as each lot has been given a house number, and house number depends on the location and lot (or lots) number.

HOBBY GROWS INTO FULL-TIME PROJECT

TRAIN PRIZE DOGS

CROYDON, Aug. 10—The ambitious operators of Lahnwood Kennels, Bristol Pike—Mr. and Mrs. William Lahn—have come in for a share of recognition in the public press during the past few days.

Known as Edna and Bill to their friends, they are thrilled with their hobby and side-line which has blossomed into a business that takes up as much time as a full-time job—that of breeding and handling cocker spaniels.

At the kennels are two males, five puppies that will be two weeks old tomorrow. It is believed that many of the adult dogs are on their way to championships.

It was nine years ago that the Lahns acquired a pedigree cocker as a family pet, and decided to breed it for the enjoyment of having puppies around. When the first litter arrived the Lahn family was off on the road of amateur fanciers.

The Lahns do all the work in connection with the kennels, feeding, exercising and training.

Ch. Lahnwood Grand Guy, winner of ten best of varieties and recipient of 88 ribbons, is enshrined in their hearts. Checkers, the champion's kennel name, has been entered in 25 shows, scoring his first point at nine months when he won the best of variety. It was at the age of two that he acquired his title at Hartford, Conn.

It was three years ago that the Lahns became professional handlers. Mrs. Lahn has charge of the household, and her hubby has a full-time job—but they take full charge of the dogs. Although the Lahns claim that expenses overbalance profits, in spite of the $10 handling fee, plus board, plus any money won, they are paid in the excitement of competition, and pinning up ribbons.

A dog is taken to the kennels two or three weeks before a show to brush up on form, and three hours daily are devoted to each dog. There are alternate half-hour periods of rest and training. Lead breaking is first; then a dog is taught to "stay" when told to—and patience is required on the part of a handler.

A dog, if a novice, is first entered in a match—a show without points—in which he can make errors without embarrassment to the owner or handler.

It is claimed that to get the most out of a dog is to thoroughly understand the dog. Once a dog is thoroughly trained it will enter the ring full self-confidence.

MORRISVILLE MUST IMPROVE LOCKUP

State Dep't of Welfare Serves Notice Upon The Borough

MUST VISIT INMATES

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 10—This borough has received notice from the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare that within 90 days the conditions at the borough lockup must be improved. The lockup is located in the rear of borough hall.

Council, in a letter was directed to clean and repaint the jail, remove storage there, instruct proper authorities to make hourly visits to inmates, keep adequate records and provide adequate plumbing facilities.

Councilman Charles Young pointed out that the jail at one time was equipped with plumbing but that an inmate had ripped a basin off the wall and flooded the jail.

William Howell, borough secretary, was instructed to reply that the borough will comply with the directive, at the same time pointing out the borough's position on the failure to maintain plumbing facilities.

Councilman David Talone announced council's unanimous decision to reject a petition by Alexander and Mary Zekan of 84 Central Ave., between Brooks Ave. and Morrisville Cemetery, to permit construction of a grocery.

Residents of Cox Ave. will send notices directing them to comply with an order to install curbs, gutters and sidewalks, Councilman Edwards Greenlee said. Failure to comply, it was added, will result in the borough doing the work and charging the residents. The curbing project coincides with the surfacing of the street by the borough.

Work on the extension of the water intake pipe in the Delaware River is almost completed, Councilman Caleb Cope reported.

Council voted to purchase a snowplow from the King Supply Co., Morrisville, for $458.13.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

Chiang has only a few weeks to mend his fences here. . . . Next month we will be occupied with the Miss America contest.

In March 1948 we wrote "The feeling is Chiang's hand needs strengthening. He might try exercising it . . . standing with the palm out for so many years may have weakened it."

It took the State Department 17 months to put that in 1,054 pages and call it a White Paper.

All I know is the Communists proved in 21 days that Chiang hadn't learned how to be a general in 21 years.

And in my town any man who hadn't learned his trade in 21 years was thought to be either stalling or stagnant.

Everyone would like to help the Chinese people but it's difficult . . . they're still in the hands of their friends.

"UNCLEAN" NO LONGER

Leprosy, from ancient times on, has been a monstrous horror viewed with fear and superstitious awe. Such ailments as blindness or demonic possession might arise from attitudes of mind and be cured accordingly.

But leprosy was as loathsome physical and "real" as it was incurable and contagious. Even in days when sanitation and the germ theory were unheard of, lepers were forced to cry "Unclean!" that the hale might shun them.

A lesser miracle of science has changed all that. Promin and other new sulfone drugs will not cure leprosy, but they can remove the uncleanness. Like insulin in diabetes, they arrest the disease. They also render it completely non-contagious.

That is progress. But progress, as officials of the National Leprosarium at Carville, La., are discovering for themselves, brings not only rewards but frustrations and disillusionments. They were proud that they have been able to discharge 52 patients with arrested leprosy last year. But they are distressed because 16 of the 52 have come back and others are suffering from the attitude of society.

The stigma remains. People still figuratively cry "Unclean! Unclean!" Released lepers are lost and bewildered in a world that won't give them jobs or grant them friends. They are no danger to anyone, but they are shunned as if they were. Some of them even wonder if they aren't worse off than they were.

WHAT'S COOKING? A WHALE!

Young ones from northern waters make the best eating, they say. The old-fashioned reek of whale-oil soap, which the over-imaginative widen their nostrils to if someone as much as mentions whale meat, is less prominent in the flesh of the Arctic-reared calves of the world's mightiest mammal.

Since of tastes there is no disputing, there are people whose mouths water at the very thought of a whale. The Japanese, a strange people, are fond of whale meat; and so are the Russians, an extraordinary folk. The Norwegians, who are neither equatorial nor outre, like it too. And Britons, twitching a nostril at the very thought, may decide to demonstrate their austerity by acquiring the taste.

Meat is strictly rationed in Britain, where a week's supply is less than a hungry man could consume at one sitting. Whale meat, however unappetizing the thought may seem, is good red flesh, replete with the complete amino-acid compounds necessary for optimum nutrition. And whale meat is not rationed.

Britain's Ministry of Food has been in a huddle with butchers, who have tentatively agreed to offer whale steaks, whale roasts, short ribs of whale, and whale-burger to their stock. The government is prepared, if these products catch on, to arrange for as much as 250,000 tons of whale meat during each hunting season.

slogan of the people in the north is: "Down with Chiang, death to Mao."
Wu Te-Chen and other Nationalist officials said the reports they get disclose the following picture that explains the people's feelings:
Weary with war, the people welcomed the retreat of the Nationalists because they felt that any change would be for the better and that once they were behind the front lines—once the war had passed them by—they would be able to settle down to the ordinary business of living.

When the Communists came, therefore, they were welcomed. Their soldiers were well disciplined and well trained politically. Most of all they were polite, where Nationalist troops had been rude.
But this politeness soon palled. The farmers soon found that the polite Communists demanded more rice and more firewood than the rude Nationalists. The farmers and the city folks learned that the oppressive taxes of the Nationalists were less than the new taxes levied by the Peoples Liberation army.

Nationalist leaders think the attitude of the peasants, particularly, can become a determining factor in turning the tide against the Reds. But they realize, too, that it is unlikely the peasants or any other dissident elements will do anything until the Nationalists prove by military deeds that they still have a future in China.

GEROME PITCHES NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME HERE

"Reggie" Gerome entered the mythical hall of fame of the Bristol Suburban Softball League last evening as he hurled a no-run no-hit game for Franklin A. C. over St. Ann's on Memorial Park field. Final score was: Franklin, 8; St. Ann's, 0.

In pitching the no-hitter, Gerome only permitted five St. Ann's players to reach base, three on passes and two on errors. Not one was able to get as far as third base.

On the other hand, Franklin had a total of six hits off "Reggie" Pinelli. But two of these were by Art Massi which enabled him to drive three runs across the plate.

In the fourth inning, Frank Barbetta slammed out a home run with the bases bare but shortly after two runners were on the bags when Gerome came through with a double.

In the Suburban League game at Tullytown, Tullytown A. C. forfeited to Second Ward. The triumph gave the Second Warders the regular season championship of the loop.

TRENTON, Aug. 10 — Irwin Penrose hit a home run in the last half of the seventh inning last evening to give Lalor A. C. a close 7-6 win over St. Ann's A. C. in a Trenton Industrial League game. The defeat dropped the "Saints" to second place in the league standing.

Penrose's four-base blow came off the hurling of "Danny" Keegan who had relieved Paul Cervellero in the fifth inning. Keegan was charged with the loss while Art Green was the winning pitcher.

The Bristol team passed up its best opportunity in the first half of the seventh when Joe Elmer led off with a triple. But Barbetta could not score him. Ciabella beat out a hit but Schultheis and Keegan failed to produce and the "Saints" were scoreless.
